Art Unit: 1711

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Windemuth.

Windemuth discloses, in example 3, a prepolymer comprising a polyester having a molecular weight of 1800 and tetramethyl p phenylenediisocyanate. The translation says tetraethyl phenylene diisocyanate, but one can see in example 2, line 5 in the original German that it was tetramethyl phenylene diisocyanate. In example 3, Windemuth chain extends with water.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Windemuth in view of Saunders and Frisch.

5. Windemuth discloses the invention of the claims (see the above rejection). He differs from the claims by not including a chain extender during the prepolymer step and by showing a coating rather than a shaped article.

6. Saunders and Frisch teach that cast elastomers can be used for coatings (page 447) as well as for shaped articles (pages 435-436), and they teach that cast elastomers can be made by one shot methods as well as prepolymer methods (page 307).

7. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the polyurethane of Windemuth for shaped articles because Saunders and Frisch teach that cast elastomers can be used for both coatings and shaped articles. It would have been obvious to make the elastomers of Windemuth by a one shot method because Saunders and Frisch teach that both methods can be used, and the one shot method would save time by eliminating an extra step.

8. Applicant's arguments filed 1-22-01 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicants argue that Windemuth is non-analogous art. Both the invention and Windemuth are directed to the field of polyurethanes.

The applicants argue that Windemuth doesn't disclose chain extenders, but he does disclose water in example 3.

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
